

ABSTRACT

A collector for storage battery which causes lowered voltage drop and exhibits an excellent corrosion resistance, a storage battery comprising such a collector, and a process for the production of such a storage battery are provided.

In other words, the present invention concerns a collector for storage battery comprising a thin electrically-conductive ceramic layer formed on the surface of a collector, a storage battery comprising such a collector and a process for the production of such a storage battery.